August is Membership and Extension Month

On the Rotary calendar, August is dedicated to membership and extension. During this month, consider sharing with your community what it means to be a Rotarian. For starters, read Rotary Basics. Consider using the information when developing a press release, letter to the editor, or newspaper supplement, and be sure to add information specific to your club or district.

International Literacy Day, 8 September

Share with the media what your club or district is doing to create a more literate world for International Literacy Day on 8 September. You might also consider placing a Rotary public service announcement in a local newspaper or magazine. You can tailor the PSA by adding descriptions of your club's literacy, mentoring, or book distribution activities. Clubs can also write and send a letter to the editor emphasizing the importance of literacy and Rotary's local and global efforts.

What are bloggers really talking about?

Do you ever wonder how issues like polio, peace, or literacy are being addressed on blogs? You can track them through Blog Pulse, a site that enables its users to search key trends or even follow a conversation taking place online right now. Blogs enable users to comment on stories and also provide relevant news and information - including what Rotary is currently doing to address specific issues around the world.

Rotary in the news

Responding to the US$100 Million Challenge Grant from the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation, the Rotary Club of Great Falls, Montana, USA, and Pacific Steel and Recycling have partnered to raise funds for polio. The recycling center allows anyone to donate part of their proceeds from recyclables toward the club's polio fundraiser. Read the story posted on Montana's News Station here. Also, scroll down on Pacific Steel and Recycling's blog to learn more about the program, and note the link to Rotary's Web site.

Amusing Quotes

I think the worst time to have a heart attack is during a game of charades...or a game of fake heart attack.
